

BUSINESS REPORT OPINION/ ANALYSIS

Labour brokers contribute to the creation of jobs

June 1, 2009

By Michael Bagraim, Cape town

The reality is that there are good employers and bad employers in all forms of employment. We need more inspectors, better policing and proper implementation of the law. Just because people break the law does not mean that we need to change the law. In essence labour broking provides half a million jobs a year and we need to ensure that we create more employment not less.

We need to ensure that the labour legislation is adhered to and if there are bad employers who breach the law then they need to be brought to book.

*Michael Bagraim
Cape Town*